On the day that spring turned into summer, Lisbon gained a new green space, unlike any other. This Sunday, June 21st, an incredible Vertical Garden, designed by architect Francisco Cadeira Cabral, was inaugurated on the José Saramago Pedestrian Path, at the Belém Cultural Center.

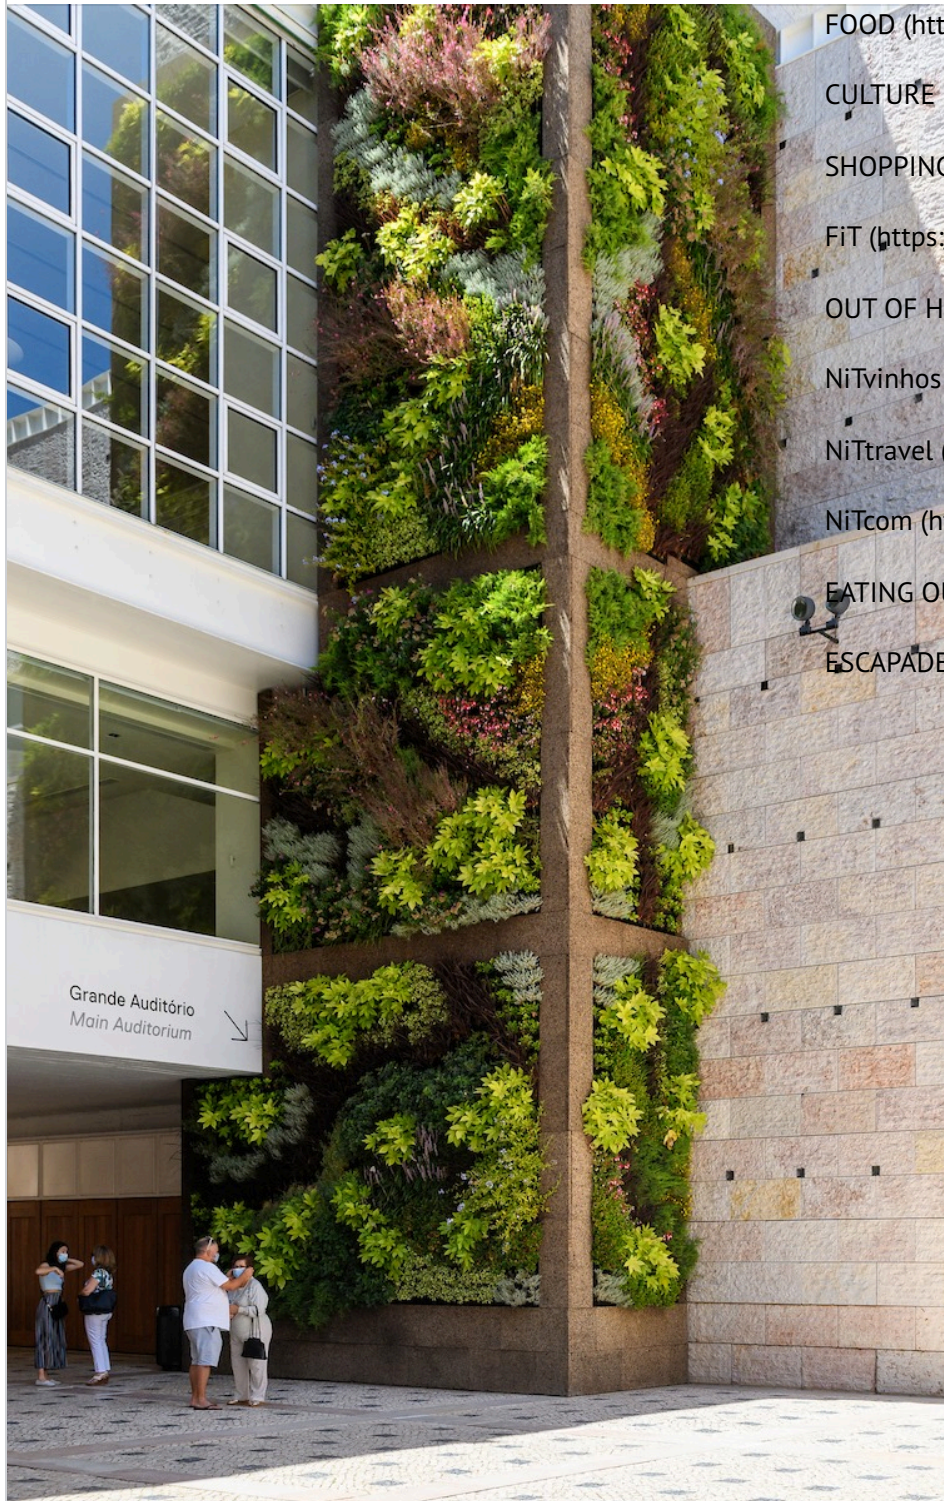

According to information from the local authority, the green structure consists of two 17-meter walls, with a total of 7,524 plants and cork covering and was created as a result of a partnership with Lisbon Green Capital 2020.

This entity adds that the garden symmetrically divides the street that crosses the Belém Cultural Center (https://www.facebook.com/centroculturaldebelem/?__xts__%5B0%5D=68.ARA93jrJ5BEkeTSl0zN_04X_CUZXSnc120sE5ZFimor6j256ZWm9PJaw5dL1asowBRJQTG5rKe-ElrJctkA8QablqDQhEUeAT5u2nOOI-t_7yxQE7pIYkgPSqlDMcoRoHW0b9dOl69B0wq4wDRpsdLM7-c5L8FjT9MdrHEvjyBKYNBxoKkXSWwTXcTW5yq0SRoY2CfF0MtiNkN56gd2s3nRhZqt_iooldg&__xts__ and that it consists of a “mantle of plants of all shapes and colors”.

The challenge, launched to architect Francisco Caldeira Cabral, “consisted of transforming the walls of the building and raising awareness for greater environmental awareness. Objective more than accomplished”, adds Green Capital on Facebook.

Aralias, liriopé and princess earrings are some of the new plants that live in Belém, and here, from the drip irrigation system to the species of plants, “everything is designed in a sustainable way so that water consumption is as low as possible”.

NiT has already been to Belém to photograph the city's new vertical forest. Click on the gallery to see it.
